

Oh dear, I have found this report about castles but all the punctuation is missing – can you correct it?

castles

castles were important buildings that rich powerful people used to protect themselves and their families they were built from wood at first and then from stone when gunpowder and cannon were invented castles fell out of fashion

attack attack

there were lots of ways to attack a castle

catapults and trebuchets

siege towers

undermining

ladders

battering rams

defending the castle

castles had thick walls they had narrow slits to fire arrows through there were special holes to pour boiling oil or drop rocks through some had moats of water round them with a drawbridge and portcullis to keep people out