

WALT: I can use how adverbs to add descriptive detail. 3 star

Edit each sentence so you include the how adverb in a different position. Remember you can use it before the verb, after the verb or to start a sentence.

Lila walked and walked and walked, and at last she found herself at the foot of a very tall mountain.

Lila walked and walked and walked, and at last she found herself at the foot of a very tall mountain.

Lila walked and walked and walked, and at last she found herself at the foot of a very tall mountain.

Lila began to climb, higher and higher and higher.

Lila began to climb, higher and higher and higher.

Lila began to climb, higher and higher and higher.

When Lila reached the top of the mountain she began to tell the sky the saddest things she knew.

When Lila reached the top of the mountain she began to tell the sky the saddest things she knew.

When Lila reached the top of the mountain she began to tell the sky the saddest things she knew.

Challenge-can you write you own sentence for this part of the story using a 'how' adverb?

Record the sentence 3 times, each with the 'how' adverb in a different position.

This image shows a full page of white paper with horizontal dashed lines, typical of primary school handwriting practice paper. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the entire width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings present.