

Dear Clever Cats,

We hope you are all well and staying safe. It was lovely to be able to talk to some of you this week! It sounds like your parents are all proud of you for being kind and helpful at home.

As we will all be staying safe at home for a few more weeks, we have planned some daily activities that match as closely as possible to what we would have been learning in school. Mums and dads can click on the links to find plans for literacy, maths and topic work.

Have a wonderful week!

Love, the FS2 Team x

PS - Can you guess what book we are reading this week?

A note for parents:

We hope you find the daily activities useful. Having spoken to you this week and last week, it is clear that you all have a lot to juggle with work, home learning and keeping your little ones happy! We also appreciate that younger children need a lot more adult support with their home learning. Please do not worry about keeping to a rigid schedule and go at your child's pace. In the school day, your children would still be doing lots of learning through play, with regular breaks and exercise. If you have any questions or need any further support with your child's learning, please send us an email and we will get back to you.

Take care,

Mrs Crossley and Miss Kiernan
